Helix Park

Development / Leasing / Management

Transwestern Development Company was selected by the largest medical complex in the world to develop Helix Park—a five million square-foot campus that brings office, lab, retail, and hospitality together on 37 acres of land in Houston’s medical district. When completed, Helix Park is expected to generate $5.4B in annual economic impact for Texas.

Transwestern is developing both Helix Park Collaborative and Helix Park from the ground up, working with the city and community of Houston to oversee construction, technical management, and programming. Following its construction, Transwestern will be responsible for leasing and managing the property.

The project intends to foster connection through a “DNA necklace” design that will form Helix Park—a greenspace promenade with a walkable and drivable urban street grid. The central hub—Helix Park Collaborative—will serve as the main communal building at the center of the Helix Park. Helix Park will further Texas Medical Center’s mission to rapidly drive new research breakthroughs through increased collaboration.
